DANGER IN DELAY.

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous For Cloverport People To Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in Cloverport.

Geo. F. Megerle, living on River St., Cloverport, Ky., says: "For three months I was unable to do any work whatever. My kidneys were in a disordered condition, and I could not pass the secretions without suffering intensely and finally my feet became so badly swollen that I was unable to get my shoes on. There was a dull pain in the small of my back which extended into my head and although I tried a number of different remedies, I was unable to find relief. Finally Doan's Kidney Pills came to my attention, and I procured them at Fisher's drug store. I used them according to directions, and in six weeks I was entirely free from kidney trouble. I attribute my present health solely to the curative powers of Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Teachers Needed.

The demand for qualified teachers is greater than the supply. The present educational awakening in the State and the application of the new school laws are creating many new positions for qualified men and women who are engaged in the teaching services. Under the Normal School law, the Board of Regents has the right to issue to students completing certain courses of study certificates which entitle them to teach anywhere in Kentucky without examination. Eligible persons sixteen years and older have a right to enter the Normal on free tuition. An illustrated catalog giving full information mailed on application. Address H. H. Cherry, Bowling Green, Ky.

About Hands.

Few persons have pretty hands and fewer know how to use them so their latent beauty will not be emphasized. The "art" of making the most of one's hands consists chiefly in preventing a square appearance and in bending the fingers so that they will look long and slender.

As a rule, woman--and men, too--make the mistake of curving their fingers, which shortens those already lacking in length. Persons with tapering fingers are the only ones who can afford to bend them at the middle joint, and observation will generally prove that such fingers are rarely bent. The natural hinge for this type seems to be at the lower joint or at the knuckles, and woman with short fingers should develop action from the same joints.

Any girl who closes her hands in a natural manner will be apt to find that before moving the knuckle joints she closes the finger down. Therefore the best remedy she can apply to counteract this awkwardness is to practice closing them by bending the knuckle joints for five minutes each day. It is not until the fingers have been brought down as far as they can be this way that there should be any movement of the middle joints.

Keeping the hand closed when in repose is awkward, for it accentuates the breadth. A really pretty and graceful pose of the hand is obtained by bending it at the knuckle joints and curving in the little and fourth fingers. If these two fingers are left straight--that is, with merely a bend at the knuckles--and the forefinger is advanced the merest trifle over the middle the effect of length in the hand is increased in marked degree especially when the thumb is straight.

There never was a more ungraceful habit than that of crooking the little finger and letting it stick out. In this position a long hand takes on a grotesque effect of having a tail, while the width of a short one is emphasized most undesirably. The best possible way is to bend down from the knuckle joint of the little finger and let the fourth have a similar angle. By this attitude the width is materially decreased, and with the other fingers made long by proper use the hand becomes attractive.--Boston Traveler.

Mr Bryan's Choice

Mr Bryan's choice of the Hon. Moses Cincinnatus Wetmore of St. Louis as head of the Democratic committee for raising the wind is as happy as Moses himself. He not only loosens up easily himself but he has a persuasive way with many of his brother millionaires. He was a good "angel" to the Peerless in 1900, and presumably will be an even better one this year. Mr Bryan has hunted trusts and jack-rabbits with Moses, who is a great hand for game preserves. The halo and the savor of his wealth, slices of which are so peculiarly appropriate in the Democratic treasury, are that it comes straight from the plutocrats and money devils. Mr. Wetmore has become rich by selling out his tobacco plants to the trust and then starting new ones for the same purpose. Trust money honestly earned by thwarting trusts; such is the fortune of this patriot, naturally one of the best beloved of Mr. Bryan's friends and counsellors. Colonel Wetmore's method of fighting the trusts is the only successful one that has been discovered so far.--New York Sun.

A Physical Culturst.

Sleep regularly, eat carefully, and walk and you will be well.--Wu.

No need to identify him with a title. Officially he is the Chinese Minister, but he is better known to the American people as dietist, philosopher and physical culturist. Walk: what a world of wisdom for the out of sorts and the debilitated in that simple recipe! Does a dog play tennis or a horse golf? Nature intended that they should quicken their circulation and keep in health by walking and running. Man's games were not made for him. He invented them for his amusement, not to keep him healthy. He walks and runs naturally, like the horse his servant and the dog his companion. Therefore walking, head up, arms swinging, is the only exercise necessary for man and the best and cheapest. Osapiant Wu! O self-sufficient Wu! True, he took a street car after giving the advice. O humau Wu!--New York Sun.

ALL RUN DOWN.

Miss Della Stroebe, who had completely Lost Her Health, Found Relief from Pe-ru-na at Once.

Read What She Says:

MISS DELLA STROEBE, 710 Richmond St., Appleton, Wis., writes: "For several years I was in a run-down condition, and I could find no relief from doctors and medicines. I could not enjoy my meals, and could not sleep at night. I had heavy, dark circles about the eyes.

"My friends were much alarmed. I was advised to give Peruna a trial, and to my joy I began to improve with the first bottle. After taking six bottles I felt completely cured. I cannot say too much for Peruna as a medicine for women in a run-down condition."

Pe-ru-na Did Wonders.

Mrs. Judge J. F. Boyer, 1421 Sherman Ave., Evanston, Ill., says that she became run down, could neither eat nor sleep well, and lost flesh and spirit. Peruna did wonders for her, and she thanks Peruna for new life and strength.

Man-a-lin the Ideal Laxative.

Swankers.

A number of our contemporaries appear to be somewhat exercised as to the precise meaning of the word "swank." Swank, though usually called by other names, is the leading characteristic of Englishmen. Frenchmen used to talk of "perfidious Albion." It was simply another way of calling us swankers. To swank is, broadly, to make the thing that is not seem as the thing that is.--London Globe.

Not.

"Shall we marry, darling, or shall we not?" was the short and witty line an ardent lover dispatched to the idol of his heart.

But, where the strangeness of the matter comes in, the girl replied: "I shall not. You may do as you please."

Moral Lesson Lost.

"Good for Squillips! I hear that since he quit drinking he has got rich." "It's too bad to spoil that story, but it's the other way. Since he got rich he has quit drinking."--Chicago Tribune.

Much Easier.

Candidate of Ideals--Wouldn't you rather be right than president? Practical Friend--Certainly! It is so much easier to be right.--Baltimore American.

Honesty is the best policy, but it is the sort of policy that has no surrender value.--Philadelphia Inquirer.

JULIAN HARRIS SUCCEEDS FATHER AS EDITOR OF MAGAZINE

JULIAN HARRIS

Who Succeeds His Father, Joel Chandler Harris, Editor of Uncle Remus's--The Home Magazine

Julian Harris, son of Joel Chandler Harris, succeeds his father as editor of UNCLE REMUS'S--THE HOME MAGAZINE, retaining also his original position as general manager. Don R. Marquis, who has already made a national reputation through his editorials, poems and short stories, is to continue as associate editor of the Magazine.

From his childhood, Julian Harris had been the comrade of his father, and he was the organizing spirit of the Magazine.

When 17 years of age, the younger Harris became a reporter for the Atlanta Herald. A year later he became connected with the Atlanta Constitution, and when 20 years of age he went to Chicago and became assistant Sunday editor of the Times-Herald. He returned to Atlanta to become night editor of the Constitution when 21 years of age, and two years later was promoted to the managing editorship of that paper--a distinction probably unprecedented for a man of his years in the history of Southern journalism. He is the author of a play soon to be staged by Nixon & Zimmerman, and has written a number of short stories, descriptive articles and essays. He is his father's literary executor, and not only are "Uncle Remus's" last writings in his possession, but through his collaboration with his father on two important unpublished works--which will be given to the public during the year--and his intimate acquaintance with the purposes and ideals of his father, he is eminently fitted to carry out the cherished plans of the founder of the Magazine.
